About the Naoero Citizenship Program

Naoero is a tiny island nation in the Pacific Ocean, one of the smallest and least populated independent countries worldwide.

The country spans just 21 km² and is located on a single island in the western Pacific, near the equator, with Kiribati as its nearest neighbour. Naoero has no standing military, and Australia provides its defence under a long-standing agreement. The island's pristine coral reefs and untouched waters make it a paradise for divers and nature enthusiasts.

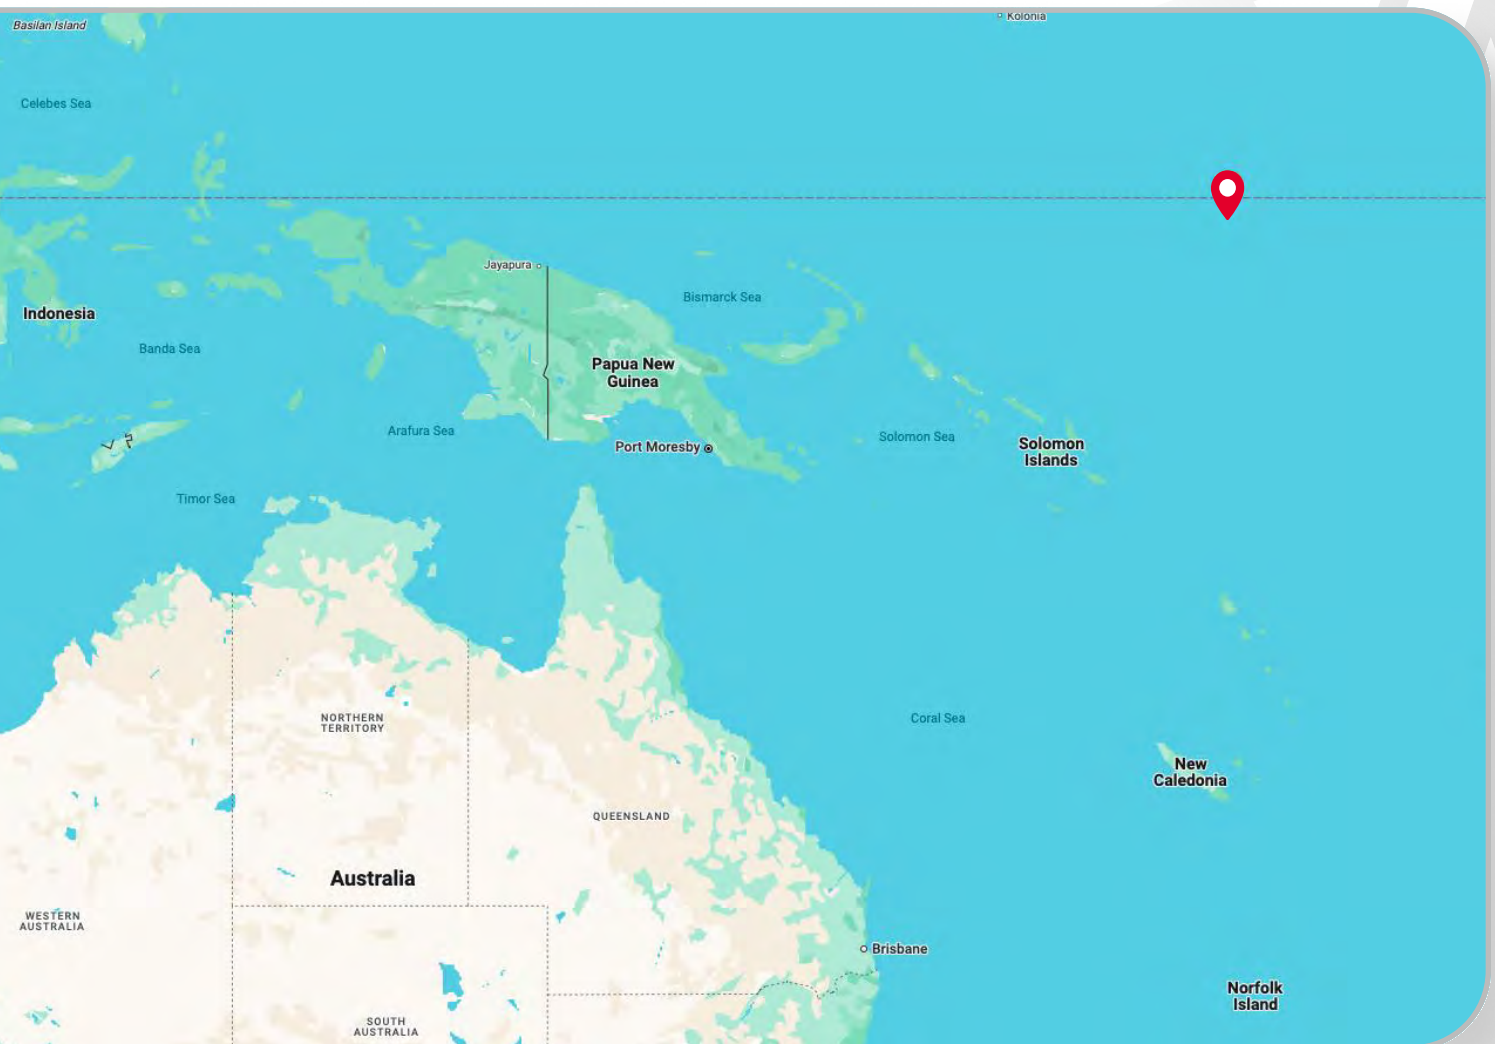

At the end of 2024, the Government of Naoero launched its Citizenship by Investment Program, which is legally based on Naoero Act No. 15 and aims to support economic growth and climate resilience.

The Naoero Citizenship by Investment Program allows high-net-worth investors and their families to obtain second citizenship by making a non-refundable contribution to the Treasury Fund. The invested funds to support national development goals, including environmental initiatives, public services, and infrastructure improvements.

Geography and Climate

The oval island has an 18-km coastline. Naoero has no official capital; its administrative offices and parliament are in Yaren District. The climate is equatorial monsoon, characterised by hot and humid conditions. The rainy season lasts from November to February, although dry periods also occur.

History

The island was settled by Micronesians and Polynesians around 1000 BCE. In 1888, Germany annexed Naoero. After World War I, governance of the island was transferred to Australia, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom. During World War II, the island was occupied by Japan, and after liberation, it was returned to the Australian administration. Naoero gained independence on 31 January 1968.

Economy

Naoero's primary natural resource is phosphate, which was extracted in the early 20th century. Due to phosphate exports, the country had one of the highest per capita incomes in the world during the 1970s and 1980s. However, resource depletion led to economic difficulties and environmental challenges. Today, Naoero's economy is supported by revenue from fishing licences and international aid, particularly from Australia and Taiwan.

Population & Culture

The majority of the population consists of dei-Naoero of Micronesian descent. The official languages are Naoeroan and English.

International Relations

Naoero has been a member of the Commonwealth of Nations and the United Nations since 1999. The country maintains diplomatic relations with several nations, including Australia, the United Kingdom, India, Taiwan, and the United States.

Investment Requirements for Naoero Citizenship

from $90,000*

To qualify for the Naoero Citizenship by Investment Program, applicants must make a non-refundable donation to the Treasury Fund. The required contribution amount depends on the number of individuals in the application.

From 30 January to 31 December 2026, a special offer applies under the Iruwa Initiative, introducing a reduced entry threshold for the programme. Outside this promotional period, the minimum investment requirement is $115,000.

How to Obtain Naoero Citizenship: Step by Step

We will guide you through the entire citizenship acquisition process, from preparing and correctly submitting your application to its approval and document issuance.

Consultation with an Astons Immigration Specialist

Our expert will assess your situation, explain the process, and guide your citizenship application. Following the consultation, you will receive a comprehensive and personalised document checklist.

Citizenship Application Preparation

The licensed program agent submits the application and complete document package to the authorised Program Office for processing.

Comprehensive Legal & Financial Due Diligence

The Government of Naoero conducts a multi-level due diligence check on the main applicant and all adult family members included in the application. At this stage, the investor pays the application registration, due diligence, and banking fees.

Approval & Investment Process

The Program Office issues the license agent a preliminary approval letter (Approval in Principle Letter).

Investment in the Treasury Fund

The investor completes the required contribution and pays the passport issuance fee within 30 days. Once the payment is received, the Program Office issues citizenship certificates and passports.

Issuance of Citizenship Certificates & Passports

The applicant and family members receive their Naoero passports.
